Brad,

Hello. How are you?

[redacted] and I wanted to take a moment and tell you thanks for all your recent work on her accident case involving [redacted] and [redacted]. Our initial meeting with you in your offices spelled out nicely the process that was to take place, and it kept pretty much true to form along the way. The settlement— though hard to compare to the grief and pain [redacted] experienced due to the accident— nonetheless provides a measure of reimbursement we are grateful to receive.

We both appreciate the professionalism you applied to this case and, though we initially tried to go with an acquaintance whom we thought would handle our case efficiently, have come to realize the benefit of working with a firm that has the size, name recognition, and clout to get the job done. Ours is a litigious society and there are, no doubt, many cases put forth simply for whatever money gain might result. Still, when a legitimate issue is at stake— i.e. one's health and her capacity to earn a living— it's good to know there are appropriate legal steps that can be taken to potentially rectify or, at least, somewhat ameliorate a very difficult and complex life situation.

Your work helped improve just such a situation in our case. Thanks again for your help, Brad.

All the best to you, your family, and your firm.

Sincerely,

[redacted]
